

REGISTER OF WILLS

Tracey Gordon

Tracey has been Register of Wills for three years, and in that time she has been all over our City promoting awareness of the importance of estate planning among people in BIPOC communities who have had little contact with her office under previous administrations. She is also widely known for publicizing the problem of “tangled titles,” a situation in which home property titles are never officially transferred to family heirs upon the owner's death thus blocking the accumulation of family wealth. She has relentlessly campaigned against this problem and helped countless families get the titles that are rightfully theirs. She has earned re-election.
